

Miranda Ries

Miranda is the Director of Regulatory Affairs for Pacific Seafood since 2017. For more than 75 years, Pacific Seafood has served the ocean by harvesting, processing, and distributing the highest quality and best-tasting seafood to their loyal consumers. Pacific Seafood Shellfish farms over 17,000 acres between Oregon, Washington, and California. Pacific Seafood Shellfish prides themselves in their sustainable aquaculture practices. Representing Pacific Seafood, Miranda appeared on the Good Morning America Show to celebrate National Oyster Day by performing an oyster shucking demonstration.

Miranda also serves as a Board Member on the Pacific Coast Shellfish Growers Association (PCSGA) representing growers in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, California, and Hawaii. Previously Miranda was the Business Manager for the National Fish and Oyster Company from 2008-2017.
