

Christopher (Chris) Potter

Christopher (Chris) Potter is the Ocean Renewable Energy Program Manager for the California Ocean Protection Council. Chris has a MS in Environmental Science from the University of San Francisco and broad professional experience in environmental science/management ranging from private consulting to federal fisheries management. Prior to coming to the Natural Resources Agency, Chris was a Sea Grant Fellow/committee consultant for the California Senate Natural Resources Committee where he worked on state legislation pertaining to stream protection and restoration, fisheries, and water pollution.