

Jennifer Savage

After serving as Humboldt County chapter chair for eight years, Surfrider Foundation brought Jennifer Savage on staff as California Policy Manager in 2015. In this role, she advocates at the state level for policies and legislation supporting Surfrider's dedication to ocean protection, beach access, water quality, coastal preservation and stopping plastic pollution. As a member of the North Coast Regional Stakeholder Group, Savage was instrumental in helping craft a unified proposal for the region's marine protected area network. She also has years of experience as an environmental journalist, radio personality, event organizer and freelance columnist on a variety of topics.
